

CURNOW'S HUT

Originally built in about 1862 by CB Fisher, to house shepherds who worked on the 312 square mile property of Bundaleer Pastoral Lease, of which Fisher was the licensee. After the proclamation of the Bundaleer Forest Reserve, this hut became the home of the first nurseryman, William John Jenkins Curnow and his family in early 1876. Consisting of 3 rooms the structure has been renovated by the Adelaide Central Mission in 1992 with funding from the Sport and Recreation portfolio, and sleeps eight, has a toilet and rain water is plumed into the building. Located within the camping ground of the Bundaleer Forest the hut is pleasantly situated offering views of the surrounding forest trees. It is suitable for small to medium sized groups. Camping is permitted in the surrounding area.

Curnow's Hut is located approx. 1km off the Bundaleer Gardens road, 5.5kms from the information sign at the picnic grounds.

If you have a moment - take it!
This place will show you peace.....
Stay awhile and feel the state of mind it has to offer you. It surrounds you, engulfs
you with total peace.
Experience nature As it awakens you with the sun, lie there and let the moon bathe you in its light. Watch the fire and know what it is like to hold a moment
without time.
This is what is given to us freely - know it
and take the thought with you when you leave.
