Cool 20-8-06

Alas! On this the 273rd day of our long journey south, we finally mounted this lofty prominence only to be greeted by a grim vast land devoid of any civilisation. Sadly our long suffering comrade Godfrey Hill succumbed to the ravages of cold and hunger and left this mortal coil. It seemed fitting that we should name this place after him. A small tower was planted 30 paces south east in the hope that one day it would grow into a fine memorial to him.
